Job 38 - God Speaks to Job A. God speaks to Job. 1. (1) The LORD speaks to Job from the whirlwind. Then the LORD answered Job out of the whirlwind, and said: a. Then the LORD: Over the previous 35 chapters (since Job 2), God has been directly absent from the account. We read nothing of God's direct role in comforting, speaking to, or sustaining Job in the midst of his crisis.

Enduring Word Bible Commentary Job Chapter 38

God does, finally, respond to Job's question, but not with an answer. And yet Job says he is comforted. God does not say why the innocent sometimes suffer or the wicked prosper, why some die too young, why trouble seems to seek out some while others seem immune. God simply appears in a whirlwind and reminds Job that he, Job, is not God. God is.

Among his books is a more unusual one, a commentary on Job called The Comforting Whirlwind: God, Job and the scale of creation. The book of Job, McKibben suggests, is about a man wrestling with an experience that defies the conventional wisdom of his time. The understanding of his age was that God rewarded the good and punished the wicked.
